POINT ASSESSMENT:

Point accumulation is shown for the last 12 month, 24 month, and 36 month period. Each minor moving violation is given a value of one point. For more serious violations, up to four points may be given. The conviction and the points assessed are entered on the driver's record and maintained for three years following the conviction date.

Driving privileges will be suspended for:

- 30 days if a driver accumulates 12 points in any one year period,
- 90 days for an accumulation of 18 points in any two year period,
- 6 months for an accumulation of 24 points in any three year period.

DEFENSIVE DRIVING COURSE: Once every three years, a driver may reduce his/her point total by three points by completing an approved defensive driving course. Point reduction cannot be saved up or credited toward future convictions. The course must be taken prior to a suspension for point's accumulation. The statement "Total points have been credited for completion of defensive driving course" will only be displayed on the driving record if point assessment has been reduced. A driver may have taken a defensive driving course prior to any point assessment. The driving record may show "Completed defensive driving course". However, the statement "Total points ..." would not be shown because the number of points was not reduced.

POINTS ASSESSED: Insurance companies may also use a point system to assess a driver's record. Do not confuse insurance company procedures with these points assessments. The points assessment shown on the driving record is only used by the department for determining suspensions for point accumulation or habitual violations.

END OF 3 (ALL) YEAR RECORD: The time frame for which the driving record is shown.

DRIVER PRIVACY PROTECTION ACT: If the driver has requested the DPPA it is marked on the driving record and this statement will appear at the bottom of the DLR.
